

Greek Journal – J-Term 2013

15 January 2013 – Day 5

15 January 2013 - Day 5
What a day! And as you can tell, not over. We started off visiting the Palace of Elagabalus in the morning. The emperor's and I'm not sure I have words for how cool that was. I think it explored for hours and hours. When we left there, we said farewell to Nafplio, which was sad. That was a great town. Then we headed to Argos to finally see the theatre that is left there, even though there is a lot of the people's remains. The theatre is the biggest one around. There is also the remains of a Roman theatre building. I can't believe this stuff! This is Greece 2000 years ago and I am here walking on it and touching it. It blows my mind! Then we headed to Lerna, where Stephanie and I presented on Franchi (Lerna). And we saw

